Several individuals, some of whom are anonymous, have claimed that a 1974 interview about a Leeds satanist group, the Temple of the Sun, printed in the Yorkshire Evening Post was definitive evidence of (i) Myatt's involvement with Occultism and Satanism, and (ii) Myatt's involvement with the Order of Nine Angles (ONA/O9A).

The Story According To Myatt

§ The Temple of the Sun

The first part of Myatt's account regarding the Temple of the Sun (ToS) is given in Part Two (1973-1975) of his 2012 seven-part The Ethos of Extremism - Some Reflexions on Politics and A Fanatical Life, {1} with the Temple of the Sun being created as a neo-nazi honeytrap:

> In respect of covert action, I came to the conclusion, following some discussions with some C88 members, that two different types of covert groups, with different strategy and tactics, might be very useful in our struggle and thus aid us directly or aid whatever right-wing political party might serve as a cover for introducing NS policies or which could be used to advance our cause. These covert groups would not be paramilitary and thus would not resort to using armed force since that option was already covered, so far as I was then concerned, by C88.
> The first type of covert group would essentially be a honeytrap [11], to attract non-political people who might be or who had the potential to be useful to the cause even if, or especially if, they had to be 'blackmailed' or persuaded into doing so at some future time. The second type of covert group would be devoted to establishing a small cadre of NS fanatics, of 'sleepers', to - when the time was right - be disruptive or generally subversive.
> Nothing came of this second idea, and the few people I recruited during 1974 for the second group, migrated to help the first group, established the previous year. However, from the outset this first group was beset with problems for - in retrospect - two quite simple reasons, both down to me. First, my lack of leadership skills, and, second, the outer nature chosen for the group which was of a secret Occult group with the 'offer', the temptation, of sexual favours from female members in a ritualized Occult setting, with some of these female members being 'on the game' and associated with someone who was associated with my small gang of thieves.

He also writes:

> For some time, this underground group appeared to flourish, with some 'respectable' people recruited - initially a lecturer, a teacher, a solicitor, among others - with some of the recruits becoming converts to or in some way helping our political cause, and with such clandestine recruitment aided, later on, by some unexpected, non-factual, unwanted, publicity.
> But what happened was that, over time and under the guidance of its mentor, the Occult and especially the hedonistic aspects came to dominate over the political and subversive intent, with the raisons d'etat of blackmail and persuasion, of recruiting useful, respectable, people thus lost. Hence, while I still considered, then and for quite some time afterwards, that the basic idea of such a subversive group, such a honeytrap, was sound, I gradually lost interest in this particular immoral honeytrap project until another spell in prison for an assortment of offences took me away from Leeds and my life as a violent neo-nazi activist [12].

The "unexpected, non-factual, unwanted, publicity" which aided recruitment was the 1974 newspaper article, about which Myatt writes:

> "The journalist promised to let me read his final copy before it was published - a condition I had specified before giving the interview - and several photographs of me were taken, with him suggesting I hold something to do with the Occult, since he had noticed I had a collection of horror, and Occult, fiction (most of which in fact were given or loaned to me by Eddy Morrison). Perhaps foolishly, I agreed, holding up some Occult thingy which Joe Short had given to me a few days before. Our conversation lasted for about half an hour, during which the journalist took a few notes (it was not recorded).
> I assumed that he would simply recount what I had said. Of course he neither showed me the article before publication, nor printed what I said, except for one short sentence about causing chaos. The whole article was a fabrication, designed to be sensationalist and to discredit me. This whole episode was to be a very interesting, worthwhile, experience for me: pathei-mathos, as Aeschylus wrote." {2}

Thus, as a honeytrap the intent was to aid the political, revolutionary, cause of neo-nazism that Myatt at the time fanatically believed in. This does not imply that he was, as has been alleged, a satanist or an Occultist.

A relevant example is the infiltration by Police officers, many from the Special Demonstration Squad between the late 1960s and the 1970s, who infiltrated various political groups, including the Socialist Workers Party and the Troops Out movement, with some such as Mark Kennedy having intimate relationships with women involved in such groups and with the officers themselves cultivating a special type of 'false persona' part of which involved feigning belief in whatever cause, political or environmental, they targeted. These 'undercover' assignments often lasted for several years with some of these 'undercover' officers even giving public speeches and interviews about 'their' cause.

Which infiltration for a specific purpose, and which cultivated persona, did not mean they believed in such causes.

The same applies to Myatt in relation to the satanist Temple of the Sun, which was formed as a neo-nazi honeytrap. His type of 'false persona' at the time was cultivated for the purposes of gaining recruits for his neo-nazi cause and finding people who might be useful to that cause. Thus, as he later stated he was neither a satanist nor an Occultist, only a dedicated neo-nazi as those 'undercover' Police officers were dedicated to their chosen profession.

§ The Order of Nine Angles

The allegationists {3} state that Myatt's involvement with the Temple of the Sun 'proves' that he was involved with the O9A and that the 1974 interview is "a primary source" which proves it.

However, their timeline is incorrect since the O9A was formed long after Myatt left the Temple of Satan as he writes in the hands "a married businessman living near Manchester" who was the person "who had suggested the outer, the Occult, form of the group." {1} Furthermore, in that 1974 interview there was no mention of an O9A with that name not recorded or mentioned by anyone or in any literature until years later, as scholarly research would reveal. It was the group led by that businessman which merged with two other Occult groups to become the O9A. Thus, describing, as one allegationist did, the Temple of the Sun as "a founding O9A nexion" during Myatt's few months association with what was then a neo-nazi honeytrap is, at best, fantasy.

For, in the Autumn of 1974 Myatt had left Leeds, became a vagabond, then lived in a caravan on a farm in the fenland "writing poetry. Musing on life; reading the collected works of Jung and Toynbee; studying religions, including Buddhism." While living in that caravan he was arrested by the Police and then spent six months in Norwich prison for refusing to pay fines imposed following a criminal trial in Leeds in late 1974. Following his release from prison in 1976 he returned to Leeds although his stay there was brief:

> "For several weeks my plan became to return to an itinerant life, and thus became a kind of wandering poet, some sort of modern Taoist: a Way of Life familiar to me from my study of Taoism and my practical involvement with a Taoist Martial Art. But it seemed as if the wyrdful Cosmos had a rather different plan, for one day I decided - for reasons I cannot now recall - to borrow a bicycle belonging to a friend and head out for a week's holiday in the English countryside. A train conveyed me part of the way, and - the weather still hot, dry, and sunny - it was a pleasure to be away from the city, and I became as a schoolboy again for whom nearly every mile pedalled was an adventure.
> There were stops for food, water - and a few overnight stays, often in some field beside some hedge. It did not matter, for I was still young, healthy, and quite strong.
> After several days I came to be cycling down some narrow lane. To my left, a wooded hill of conifers; on my right, fields flowing gently upward to where a collocation of buildings were gathered just below a swathe of deciduous trees. The largest building somewhat - and I thought incongruously - resembled a French château, and so, intrigued, I cycled on to take a turning which I hoped might lead me toward it.
> It was a monastery, and, leaving my bicycle propped up against a nearby tree, I wandered around. The door to the Abbey church was unlocked and I went inside. The cool quietness was slightly perfumed with incense from some recently ended Mass and a feeling of immense relief came over me as if I had, finally, come home. Words, scenes, emotions, scents, memories from a Catholic childhood lived within me once again, and it was so peaceful, so blissfully peaceful, sitting there, in the nave, that Time ceased to have any meaning or cause me any feeling as it trundled on in that other world, outside. Such stillness I had not thought possible came to keep me still.
> I have no idea for how long I sat there, unthinking, and it was only when some activity in the monks choir beyond, behind, the altar distracted me that I remembered who and where I was. Then - their noonday prayer, chanted.
> Suffice to say that when I returned to Leeds, soon afterwards, I immediately wrote to the Guestmaster of the monastery enquiring about a weekend visit.
> Some weeks later, I was there, at home, again. A weekend became a week; a certain request; an excited and nervous return to Leeds; and then that day when, with my few belongings, I ventured forth to begin my new life as a monk." {4}

Regarding this, the allegationists, somewhat paranoiacally and without any evidence at all, claim that this episode as a monk was an O9A "insight role" even though there is no evidence to prove the O9A existed at that time. Paranoiacally, because they ignore the many personal writings by Myatt in which he expresses his feelings about Christianity, such as:

> "In respect of the sacred, for instance, I still find that one of the most beautiful expressions of the numinous is Catholic chant: Gregorian, Cistercien, and Vieux-Roman. Indeed, one of my favourite pieces of music is now, as it has been for decades, Répons de Matines pour la fête de Saint Bernard. One of my treasured memories is, as a monk, singing the office of Compline and then, in the sublime silence of the church, going to the Lady Chapel to kneel in contemplative wordless prayer on the stone floor in front of a statue of the Blessed Virgin Mary." {5}

The allegationists also state that the ritual text known as the Black Book of Satan was an O9A text whereas that text, a 1980s copy of which is in the British Library, {6} makes no mention of an O9A. {7}

The Story According To The Allegationists

The story, exemplified in often anonymous diatribes such as David Myatt in Leeds - The Temple of the Sun and the origins of the Order of Nine Angles, in a multitude of often anonymous 'social media' posts, in often anonymous videos posted on Internet sites, in texts such as the 2025 thesis Across the Abyss: Heideggerian impact on the Occult Longtermism of the Order of Nine Angles, {8} and in articles by those associated with antifascist 'policy groups', is that Myatt not only "lies through his teeth", {9} but is and was 'Anton Long' and founded the O9A, with one allegationist as noted above claiming that the 1974 interview is "a primary source" which proves Myatt founded the O9A whereas Myatt ceased involvement with the Temple of the Sun after a few months, moved away from Leeds, was imprisoned, and then became a Catholic monk; facts which the allegationist ignored.

A Choice Between Two Stories

At present, the choice is between what Myatt writes and has over the years written about the matters in question, and what the allegationists allege and assume, especially about Myatt himself. Hence, we can accept that the 'false persona' that Myatt cultivated during his few months association with the Temple of the Sun was for the purposes of gaining recruits for his neo-nazi cause and finding people who might be useful to that cause. Or, we can accept what the allegationist believe and assiduously propagate for whatever personal or political reason: that Myatt in his writings is deceptive, is lying; that what some journalist wrote in the past about Myatt is accurate and that there is not or never was any ulterior motive or bias personal, political, or otherwise in what some journalists report; and that it is for the person who is the subject of allegations to prove their innocence and not for the allegationists to offer evidential facts which prove their allegations are true "beyond all reasonable doubt".

What we find interesting, and perhaps indicative, is not only that "we", the authors of such items as this, are accused, without any evidence, of being Myatt himself {10} but also that it is fundamentally a question of personal knowing verses what is alleged or assumed by others on the basis of hearsay, allegations spread by impersonal mediums such as the Internet, by the mass Media, and by individuals who do not personally know and who have not known over a significant period of time, the person who is the subject of such hearsay and allegations.

As Myatt wrote in 2013,

> "In respect of rumours and allegations, I have, on a few occasions, challenged some individuals to a duel with deadly weapons, according to the etiquette of duelling. Not one of the individuals so challenged to a duel had the honour to accept, or issue a public apology in lieu of fighting such a duel. As I wrote some thirteen or more years ago:
> > I have never bothered to have recourse to civil law, and established Courts, to sue those making libellous allegations about me quite simply because the only law I believe in and strive to uphold is the law of personal honour. Given that I have challenged two journalists, according to the law of personal honour, to a duel with deadly weapons for > making such malicious allegations, and given that they did not have the honour to accept this challenge or issue an apology in lieu of fighting a duel, I consider my honour vindicated.

> Such challenges, the lack of evidence to support the allegations and rumours, and the refusal of those so challenged to a duel of honour to either fight that duel of honour or issue an apology, reveals the truth of this particular matter – at least to those possessed of arête." {11}

In other words, it is a simple matter of personal character:

> "My own rather old-fashioned view is and was that a personal knowing of someone, extending over a period of many months if not a year or more, is the only honourable way to form a reasoned opinion about someone. For honour means the cultivation of traditional gentlemanly and ladylike virtues and one of which virtues is that we strive to treat other human beings in a fair way; ignoring what others have said or written about them; ignoring their past (real or alleged); and giving them the benefit of the doubt unless and until direct personal experience, direct knowledge of them, reveals them to be dishonourable [...]
> In addition, and importantly, are those who in the past have prejudged me - who have written about me as a violent extremist - accepting of individual change, of the virtues of reformation and pardonance? Are they aware of my voluminous recent writings regarding my philosophy of pathei-mathos and those regarding my extremist past and my rejection of extremism? Are they open to the possibility of my change and reformation? Or will they continue with 'the party line' and thus continue to insist that I am some sinister person whose recent mystical writings are just some sort of diabolical ploy?
> More interestingly (perhaps) could my career as an extremist have been brought to an earlier end had one or some of my opponents taken the trouble to get to know me personally and rationally revealed to me the error of my suffering-causing, unethical, extremist ways?
> Perhaps; perhaps not - I admit I do not know. I do know, however, how my personal interaction with, and the ethical behaviour of, the Police I interacted with from the time of my arrest by officers from SO12 in 1998, permanently changed (for the better) my attitude toward the Police." {11}

{7} As stated in the published book:

> "According to tradition, each Master or Mistress who was responsible for a particular Satanic Temple or group, was given on his or her assumption of that responsibility, a copy of the Black Book of Satan. The Black Book contained the basic Satanic rituals, instructions relating to ceremonial magick in general. It was the duty of the Master or Mistress to keep this book safe, and non-Initiates of the Temple were forbidden to see it [...] The whole text of the traditional Black Book is included in the present work, together with several additional chapters (e.g. Self-Initiation; Organizing and Running a Temple)."

It was presumably that 'traditional Black Book' which was in the possession of the Temple of the Sun.

{8} The claims made in that thesis are examined in detail in The Early And The Later Myatt: A Study In Temerous Claims, available at: https://archive.org/download/the-early-and-later-david-myatt/the-early-and-later-david-myatt.pdf

{9} The expression was used by the CEO of a British antifascist group in a March 2022 interview with journalist Justin Ling.

{10} Among those also accused of being Myatt are Egnatius Severin, Gelis Sangster, Rachael Stirling, R. Parker, Wikipedia's "Coolmoon", Internet Archive's "rigel7", Bluesky's "Oxfordian23", "sirida21", "sol73omega", etcetera etcetera.

In fact, the allegationists apparently believe Myatt is anyone who deems to publicly critique what has become the Establishment orthodoxy about Myatt, for which orthodoxy refer to the 2026 text A Modern Phantasy About A Man, which no doubt the allegationists will believe and claim was also written by Myatt.

The Animal Cruelty Allegation

Editorial Note: We include here an analysis of a specific allegation first made decades ago and since repeated by various allegationists including the anonymous author of the 47 page diatribe titled David Myatt in Leeds - The Temple of the Sun and the origins of the Order of Nine Angles.

The unproven allegation, repeated and embellished over the three decades by a certain antifascist self-described journalist and then by others, is that in the 1970s Myatt participated in a 'satanic' ritual involving animal cruelty and the sacrifice of a cat. The allegation was repeated in a podcast {1} by that antifascist self-described journalist and was prominent in the klappentext that advertised that interview.

However, no evidence from primary sources has ever been presented with the context of the allegation (a local newspaper article) seldom mentioned. Neither has Myatt's 'side of the story', and his denial of the allegation, been presented.

In his 2013 text A Matter Of Honour {2} Myatt wrote that the allegation was > "investigated at the time by both the Police and the RSPCA whose conclusion was that they were fabrications concocted by the journalist, and perhaps, as I concluded, to get his name on the front page of the newspaper and sell more copies.

> What surprised me (and to be honest, upset me, for a while), after this interview, was how so many people believed everything the journalist had written, without bothering to ask me for my side of the story. As if just because something was printed in some newspaper or other then 'it must be true' [...]
> And it was then that I learnt several valuable lessons: just how easily people can be manipulated, just how dishonest and conniving (and thus dishonourable) some journalists seemed to be, by nature; and just how powerful the established Media was, able make or break a person's reputation."

This investigation by Police and the RSPCA involved them personally visiting and interviewing Myatt. In his earlier, 2005, Autobiographical Notes {3} he provided the necessary context:

<! begin quotation>

Around 2005 CE, a former political associate of mine - Eddy Morrison - wrote his version of some events which occurred in and around Leeds between the years 1972 and 1974. Since his version of events differs from the reality I remember it is only fitting that I present here "my side of the story".

It should be noted that - despite some personal and political differences between myself and this person - I steadfastly defended him for well over ten years, often praising his commitment and dedication to "the Cause". In the 1980's I had occasion to defend and praise him to John Tyndall, then leader of the BNP. This led Tyndall to comment: "your loyalty to him is commendable..." Yet I was to learn that this person - or Street Soldier as he styled himself - had also been in contact with Tyndall, and "warned Tyndall about me", having sent copies of newspaper articles about me containing unproven allegations of involvement with Satanism.

Tyndall was one of the very few people, over the past three decades, to have the honour, the decency, to ask me in person for "my side of the story". Tyndall was always wary of Morrison, having, in the April 1983 CE issue of his Spearhead magazine, written about Morrison in less than complimentary terms, stating that, "I know a good deal about the career of Eddy Morrison..." [...]

Morrison wrote:

> At this time I had the unpleasant duty of rooting out and expelling a small bunch of "Satanists" who thought that tying our White Nationalism with their weird cult practices would get us front page publicity. It did! But although they say any publicity is good publicity, it isn't always. I had to take a bunch of our inner core harder members and eject about seven of these Cult people from our membership and ban them from our HQ. It was a pity as one in particular whose name I have mentioned earlier was a stalwart founder member. Why he went off the rails I'll never really know, and expelling him was painful but very necessary. (Memoirs of a Street Soldier.)

There was no "bunch of satanists", just a sensationalist, factually incorrect, article in the local evening newspaper. The newspaper interview was, for me, a learning experience. I had decided to give an interview (my first) with a journalist to talk about our new NS movement, the NDFM. I briefly mentioned how it might be possible for chaos to be created by subversive means, and subversive groups, as a prelude to a revolution which an NS movement could take advantage of, an idea I had been discussing for a while with several Comrades, including some in Column 88.

The journalist promised to let me read his final copy before it was published - a condition I had specified before giving the interview - and several photographs of me were taken, with him suggesting I hold something to do with the Occult, since he had noticed I had a collection of horror, and Occult, fiction (most of which in fact were given or loaned to me by Eddy Morrison). Perhaps foolishly, I agreed, holding up some Occult thingy which Joe Short had given to me a few days before. Our conversation lasted for about half an hour, during which the journalist took a few notes (it was not recorded).

I assumed that he would simply recount what I had said. Of course he neither showed me the article before publication, nor printed what I said, except for one short sentence about causing chaos. The whole article was a fabrication, designed to be sensationalist and to discredit me. This whole episode was to be a very interesting, worthwhile, experience for me: pathei-mathos, as Aeschylus wrote.

As for the allegations which the journalist made about animal sacrifice, they were investigated at the time by both the Police and the RSPCA whose conclusion was that they were lies, and perhaps, as I concluded,concocted by the journalist to get his name on the front page of the newspaper and sell more copies.

In addition, about this matter, as elsewhere, Eddy Morrison seems rather forgetful. All he did was call round to my garret accompanied by one other NDFM member whom I knew well.

Morrison - standing well away from me when I, as almost always, answered the downstairs door, armed - then announced his "expulsion" of me. I did not care - for I was then planning to return to Africa, and enlist in the Rhodesian Army, having already made contact with someone there. So I said nothing, and Morrison went away. This "expulsion" lasted only about six weeks, after which it was "business as usual". Without my violent activism, my public speaking, my fanaticism, the NDFM had become moribund.

Morrison wrote:

> We organised a meeting on Leeds Town Hall steps in the Summer of 1974 and I was the main speaker. We had fifty or so NDFM "stormtroopers" protecting the meeting, but were opposed by a bunch of red weirdos including "Transexuals Against the Nazis". I spoke for about twenty minutes whilst the lads (and some lasses) held back the red filth. There were local reporters everywhere and although the police soon closed the meeting, we got away with two arrests and a few cuts and bruises. (Memoirs of a Street Soldier.)

The "We" who organized this meeting were the Street Soldier and myself, and he was not the main speaker. I was. I spoke for nearly half an hour and managed to control the seething crowd of Reds by haranguing them. I also dealt quite well with many hecklers. Then the Street Soldier began to speak. He spoke for only a few minutes before the Reds surged forward and fighting began. It was during this fighting that - as I recalled above - I was jumped on from behind by a Red and then by a Policeman. I and one other NDFM member were arrested and subsequently charged with "Breach of the Peace".

Several Reds were also arrested and charged with various offences, and several Police officers were injured as they tried to break up the fights.

When my case came to Trial, the Prosecution tried to prove that I had "incited the crowd", and there was no mention whatsoever by either the Police or the Prosecution of the "Street Soldier" having spoken or having "incited the crowd". I was found guilty on the lying evidence of one dishonourable Police officer, and one of the Reds was also convicted and sent to Prison.

Morrison wrote:

> We were told by London nationalists that NOBODY spoke at Hyde Park Corner. That was an open invitation for us to book a coach and take fifty NDFM down to Speakers Corner in Hyde Park. We set up a stand and three of our people spoke, whilst I controlled the stewards. We soon attracted a large crowd of lefties and for some reason a stack of anti-fascist Jewish taxi drivers. We held them at bay as long as we could. I was knocked senseless by some Zionist wielding a metal object.

> With blood streaming from quite a few cuts we marched away under police observation singing "We'll meet again" to the Reds. It was only a short meeting but we had broken the taboo. White Nationalists had again spoken at Speakers Corner.

In fact, only two people spoke at this rally: myself and Joe Short. I stood on a rather shaky table and spoke for about half an hour or so, haranguing the crowd and dealing with several hecklers. I then stepped down, and Joe Short (who looked rather like Alfred Rosenberg) began to speak. He did not speak for long - only a few words in fact - before the Reds surged forward and some fighting began. One of our stewards was arrested and later charged with possessing an offensive weapon. I believe part of my speech was filmed by an NDFM member using an 8mm camera. We then proceeded to walk toward Downing Street, followed by the Police, before dispersing. I spent that weekend in London, with a lady friend.

In respect of Eddy Morrison himself, we were both once arrested by the Regional Crime Squad and thrown into Prison for several weeks. Before this imprisonment - during my "interrogation" - he came into the room several times and asked me to co-operate with the Police, which I refused to do. I believe he did not, at that time, realize the potential seriousness of the charges which might be [brought] against us.
